

EAP1001 - Reading and Editing Strategies I

Credits:	3 (3/0/0)
Description:	This course is for students in their first semester of study in the English for Academic Purposes (EAP) cohort. The course pairs with ENGL0097: Express English and an academic content course. Students will learn strategies for taking notes and analyzing texts, identifying patterns of error in their writing and applying strategies for increasing sentence-level accuracy.
Prerequisites:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Course placement is determined by assessment</li> </ul>
Corequisites:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Enrollment in ENGL0097: Express English and paired MnTC course is required for students registering for this course</li> </ul>
Pre/Corequisites*:
Competencies:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Demonstrate comprehension of texts through a variety of activities: note-taking, small-group discussion, creation of graphic organizers, etc.</li> <li>2. Apply active reading strategies, i.e., annotate texts using a variety of strategies.</li> <li>3. Recognize common roots, suffixes and prefixes of academic and specialized vocabulary.</li> <li>4. Combine and apply appropriate reading and study strategies in preparation for exams.</li> <li>5. Analyze the language structures of texts: phrase and clause constructions, use of logical connectors, etc.</li> <li>6. Rewrite sentences, paragraphs and essays for increased grammatical accuracy.</li> <li>7. Identify individual patterns of error and apply appropriate editing strategies.</li> <li>8. Employ meta-cognitive strategies for assessing individual growth in writing proficiency.</li> <li>9. Practice integrating and crediting sources in writing.</li> </ol>
MnTC goal areas:	None

*Can be taking as a Prerequisite or Corequisite.